A reading from the Holy Gospel according to Mathew:
You shall love the Lord your God and your neighbour as yourself.
When the Pharisees heard that Jesus had silenced the Sadducees they got together and, to disconcert him, one of them put a question, ‘Master, which is the greatest commandment of the Law?’ Jesus said, ‘You must love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the greatest and the first commandment. The second resembles it: You must love your neighbour as yourself. On these two commandments hang the whole Law, and the Prophets also’.

Thanks be to God.
Thirtieth Sunday

“You must love your neighbour as your self.”

These very challenging words were not new when Jesus spoke them (they are known in several ancient civilizations and in the book of Leviticus 19:18) but they have a special ring for us because Jesus said this and He did mean it. But what did Jesus mean by love? Saint Paul wrote about love and in Greek he used the word agape which is translated to caritas in Latin or in English charity. But in the last 30 years the word charity has changed and does not mean anything like love. C.S. Lewis (a famous atheist who became a Christian believer) wrote “loving your brother is not feeling fond of him or saying he is nice when he is not”. Loving my neighbour requires that like the Good Samaritan I put the other person on my donkey and I walk alongside. How often do you manage that?
